

not yet appeared. Madame de LaGrange gave a concert in St. Louis on Saturday, as we are informed by telegraph, "a large and enthusiastic audience." Mr. Thalberg gave a concert at Buffalo on Saturday. Mr. Forrest has declined to comply with a request made to him by the sold men of Chicago. He says he took leave of the stage, as far as Chicago was concerned, several years ago, and he will keep his word. Chicago, however, can console itself with the new theatre which is to be built by Wood & McKeever.

New Theatres on Broadway.—We are to have a new theatre on Broadway soon, if Dame Rumor tells the truth.

Mr. George Wood has leased the site in Broadway, near Prince street, recently occupied by Haugwitz, and proposed, on the 1st of May, to erect an edifice fifty feet front by two hundred deep, extending back to Mercer street. The theatre is to be a magnificent structure, and the interior a marvel of beauty and finish. Theatres in Broadway are already slightly overdone, and it is a question whether all those now in operation will succeed. Mr. Wood is said, is training a troupe of some fifty children, who will give dramatic entertainments similar to the Marsh juveniles, who are now starting it in the South.

One of the late London papers says:

"London, April 25.—By the Keene steamer, from New York, Mr. Robertis, the celebrated American tragedian, who visits England for the first time. Mr. Roberts, long the rival of Edwin Forrest, is regarded by the old playgoers and higher classes of the United States as his successor, and, so far as his present tour here goes, he is likely to be a success. His arrival has caused with much interest the result of a British verdict on the question of his merits and their genuine judgment. Mr. Robertis is in his 40th year.

That's news.

The New Catholic Church in Clifton, State Island.

LAVING THE FOUNDATION STONE BY ARCHBISHOP HUGHES.

The foundation stone of St. Mary's church, Clifton, State Island, was laid yesterday afternoon by the very Rev. Archbishop Hughes. The ceremonies commenced at three o'clock. There were from two to three thousand persons present, among whom were many Protestants, who have been very friendly and aided considerably in the erection of this new church. The location of the church is one of the most eligible and beautiful on the whole island. The procession was formed at precisely three o'clock at the old Catholic church. Altar boys bearing incense and tapers headed the procession; the Archbishop, the Rev. Father Lewis (pastor of this church), and the Rev. Father Peter Tissot, of Fordham, New York, followed. Then came the multitude of men and women and children who had come up the road. When the assembly arrived at the site of the proposed church, Rev. George DuBillett became the acting pastor of the church, without being formally installed. The preliminary strength of the church congregation proved to be about 1,000, and it is so large that it will be necessary to add to it in future. An arrangement was made by which the Free church, then worshipping in the corner of Del and Washington streets, moved into the new church. The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Hughes, and the minister accompanying him, ascended a platform which had been raised for their use, and there, in the open air, the Bishop delivered a discourse to the assembled throng.

The Discourse.

The eighty-third Psalm, commencing, "How beautiful art thou Tabernacle, O Lord," was read by the Archbishop, and upon the first verse he founded his remarks. As I am prophetically to the temple of Jerusalem, but know not where it is, so I am prophetically to the church of God for his service.

Almighty God needed no temple for himself; but man needed a temple as a place to assemble, to confess his sins and unite the living. Before, to confess the sins and unite the living.

Here you will assemble to celebrate the precepts of God, and observe the rites of the Church. You should all be united in heart in this work, and contribute to it according to your means.

You should be united, one and all,

In love and charity, and the love of your neighbor, which becomes a place in which to worship God—in which to know and serve him. This church, which your benevolence and devotion is building will be a place for the eloquence and teachings of our worthy pastor only, but also for your children, who will be born and educated here.

Here you will assemble to celebrate the precepts of God, and observe the rites of the Church. You should all be united in heart in this work, and contribute to it according to your means.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

Mr. Hale, who had charge of the purchase, and was as many of the members as might be disposed, to unite him in establishing in the Tabernacle a Congregational church, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.

The elders of the church were unfavorable to this movement, and the result was that the members dispersed.

On Monday evening, July 6, 1840, at the close of the meeting when the cornerstone was laid, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who had been pastor ever since, was installed in public, and purchased by Mr. David Hale.

On the evening of the day of the consecration, as far as possible, to several persons remained to consult as to the manner of laying the cornerstone.

Several brethren from other churches joined in the ceremony, and the services were conducted with great solemnity.